Construction jobs on and offshore – We'll explore some of the leading construction trades roles out there and the interesting places they can take you

Our panellists:

Jenna from Hydro Tasmania – Jenna is a distribution linesperson who is lucky enough to work on King Island at their power station. Jenna will share with us how she got through her four-year trades apprenticeship as well as what she does day to day in her job and the importance of safety.

Matthew from Fairbrother – Matthew has worked in the building and construction industry since he was 21. He started out as a cabinet-maker and is now an apprentice program manager. Matthew will talk about some growing construction trades jobs as well as what it takes to succeed in an apprenticeship, including the importance of having the right attitude.

Mark from Comdain Infrastructure – Mark is a resource manager who works with labourers in the water and gas infrastructure area. He'll talk about some of the projects his company has worked on and what it takes to operate heavy machinery and excavators, all while getting tickets that will set you up for a great working life.

Darren from Veda Constructions – Darren has worked in housing construction for more than 20 years and has been involved in some amazing projects during that time. He'll talk about some of those and share his insights about how to go from being a tradie to owning your own business, as well as how to have the right mindset to get through those early days of your trade.
